Dear Cousin Annie:

Your note of Tuesday evening has just reached me and I am sorry I am not to be in Boston this week so as to welcome you home and look over with you the pony history, ^[manuscript] which I am most impatient to see.

Mary and three of the children move to Boston on Tuesday and I expect to go up with them and return again later in the week.

I shall try to get in to see you either Tuesday evening or Wednesday

Am sorry to say I know nothing about your Whatcomb & Puget Sound Deerflies Perhaps by this time they have been found.

We are having delightful weather here and I wish we were to stay here all winter

The foliage is glorious just now, never finer

Yours affectionately
Charles
